

He walked over the hills. "How big I am!" he said. Harold's head was above the clouds. With a few steps he came to the end of the land. At the end of any land there is water. "It is the sea," said Harold.